PROFILE

This is Noah Cladera. I'm currently looking to start my third year of Artificial intelligence studies at the Vrije Universiteit. I am a highly motivated, goal-driven individual interested in acquiring practical knowledge on computational optimization, data analysis or software engineering. I possess a logic and structured mind, which together with my developing skillset as a technical data analyst and the tools I have acquired, in addition to a deep understanding on statistical methods, allow me to structure and describe the collected data as desired. I believe in high-quality work and also vouch for a reliable work ethic, assuming responsibilities and delivering results. Also have an interest on User experience and design (Visual and UX)
